A Standup Comedian walks onstage, it is clear he's been crying

COMEDIAN

COMEDIAN (CONT'D)

...giant storm of hornets that took so many lives yesterday. Well, that swarm killed most of my friends and immediate family so today has been... pretty rough. And I know that I shouldn't blame myself for their deaths, but I can't help but feel guilty... But aside from the tragic deaths of practically every person I loved, I am still going to make an effort. I have tried my best to momentarily forget the hornets thing and I'm going to focus on making you all laugh!

He tries to think for a moment

I can't really think of anything very funny right now... but I- oh that's right! One of my friends, Tall Mike, posted this snapchat that was super funny! Here!

He fumbles to get his phone, opens snapchat

COMEDIAN (CONT'D)

Thank you to everyone who's supported me for so long, I have finally made it out of the hospital, my prosthetics are working great and I can actually walk again! This is such a blessing, and i feel like I have my entire life ahead of me! Also, Say hello to the newest addition to our family, Rufus!

Cute dog bark

In a lot of ways, his story reflects my own! He also had little to no use of his- Is that a cloud of hornets?

JACKSON (V.O.)

Sup snapchat. Today has been a bit of a bummer, you could say. Today my brother is coming out of prison. He was wrongfully accused, by me. For six counts of vandalism on various national monuments. And after eleven appeals, he is finally coming home. I can finally face him again, and I hope, against all hopes, that he will find a place in his heart to forgive me. I do not know what the future holds-

COMEDIAN

This is a long snapchat.
